FRANCO AND MUSSOLINI CONFER "SOMEWHERE IN ITALY"

IMPORTANT TURN IN AXIS DIPLOMACY IS SEEN IN DISCUSSION

amid Speculation That Two Dictators Would Consider Spain's Possible Entry Into the War Word Is Received That French Chief of State Petain Has Arrived With a Large Entourage at Cagnes, Apparently Enroute to Meet Other Leaders; Germans Deny Italy Discussing "Peace Moves"

TURKISH PRESS URGES UNITED BALKAN ACTION AGAINST A GERMAN THRUST ACROSS BULGARIA

By the Associated Press
Premier Mussolini and Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco were reported to have met "somewhere in Italy" today amid speculation the conference would consider Spain's possible entry into the war.
At the same time, French Chief of State Philippe Petain arrived with a large entourage at Cagnes, France, apparently enroute to meet Franco tomorrow.
In the nerve-jangled Balkans, warlike preparations moved steadily ahead.
Military observers in Belgrade, capital of Yugoslavia, reported that Hitler has sped 25 new divisions—about 400,000 troops—into Rumania, in recent weeks to reinforce his Balkan command.
An average of 50 trains a day, it was said, have been passing through Hungary, carrying German munitions, tanks, guns and men. Nazi force was reported massed on the banks of the Danube, facing Bulgaria.
The Turkish official press urged a united Balkan front against a German thrust across Bulgaria.
While some quarters said Turkey probably would not fight unless borders were invaded, others cited Turkey's military alliance with Britain and noted that British officers from the Middle East Command have just finished inspecting Turkish fortifications facing Bulgaria.
Dispatches from Ruse, Bulgarian port on the Danube, said German troops on the north bank of the river were speeding the construction of pontoon bridges and massing supplies near possible jumping points leading into Bulgaria.
Diplomatic observers in Bern, Switzerland, often a source of advance news on secret moves by the Axis, expressed a belief that the subject of the Franco-Mussolini talks was:
1. That Il Duce was pressing Spain's aid in the western Mediterranean to help wrest the offensive from Britain.
2. That Franco, as head of a Catholic state, was joining his efforts with those of Pope Pius XII to bring an end to the war.
Nazi quarters in Berlin said they knew nothing of a meeting, but an authorized German spokesman indicated any suggestion that British-Italian peace move was the Italian, declaring:
"That's the best joke in the world's history."
Spanish sources in Vichy, France, said they expected a Franco-Axis accord to result from the meeting—possibly with Spain providing Italy with bases on Spanish Morocco and on the Spanish mainland to combat Britain's mastery of the Mediterranean.
In London, diplomats suggested that Mussolini might ask Franco for a help in the form of troops or Spanish attack on Gibraltar as payment for favors rendered by Italy in the Spanish civil war.
They denied a London newspaper report that Britain had made peace offer to Italy with Franco acting as intermediary.
Facing these veiled maneuvers Britain's Royal Air Force bombed the German dive-bomber base at Catania, Sicily, and smashed at targets in northwest Germany, Poland, Norway and Denmark in overnight raids.
RAF pilots told of setting fierce fires in a second successive attack on Hannover, oil center, and ported raids on the big northern German sea port of Bremen; Rotterdam, The Netherlands; shipping centers, Kristiansand, Norway, and Alesund, Jutland (Denmark).
The Germans said RAF bombs killed and wounded some civilians in northern and western Germany. It asserted that anti-aircraft fire impelled the British to jettison their bombs and flee.
London had a quiet night, with brief air-raid alarm shortly before 2 a. m.—its first early morning alert in many days.

Wendell Willkie, testifying vigorously before the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, said he would not give much for this nation's chances of staying out of war if Britain should collapse. Just back from a tour of wartime England, he lent his support to the British aid bill now before Congress.

British Aid Leading Subject of Republicans At Lincoln Day Dinners Throughout Nation

Wendell L. Willkie, Party's Choice for President in 1940, to be Principal Speaker at One of Main Events in New York

DEWEY IN WASHINGTON

Harrisburg, Feb. 12.—(P)—The Rev. Marshall L. Shephard, negro representative from Philadelphia and son of slave parents, opened the House observance of Lincoln day today.
Rep. Shephard, pointing to his slave parentage said that "Yet I was elected to the house at 35."
"That could only happen in the United States," he said, adding:
"The United States is the land of opportunity for all men regardless of race, creed or color."
A chorus of 35 voices from the Lincoln University glee club of Chester county sang several songs under direction of James E. Dorsey, professor of music at the university.
Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—Republicans will gather throughout the nation at Lincoln Day dinners and party orators while honoring the martyred president are expected to discuss aid to the British nation.
Wendell L. Willkie, the party's 1940 presidential nominee, who urged passage of the British aid bill yesterday with modifications, will be the principal speaker at one of the main events—at New York.

Prime Minister Declares No Occasion Has Arisen to Outline Them for Representatives of Washington Government

PROMISES REPORTS

By the Associated Press
London, Feb. 12.—Prime Minister Churchill said today that "there is such common comprehension in the United States" of British war aims that no occasion had arisen to outline them for representatives of the Washington government.
He told Commons that no American representative, to his recollection, had ever broached to him the subject of Britain's aims in war and post-war reconstruction.
His statement replied to a question by J. H. Martin, Laborite.
Martin asked the prime minister to give assurance that before any statement was made outside Britain on peace aims and reconstruction the government would first inform parliament.
Replying, Churchill said:
"There is such common comprehension in the United States of what we are fighting for and what we stand for that I cannot recall any occasion when the question of peace aims or reconstruction has been mentioned by any of the representatives of the American government whom I have seen or corresponded with."
"It certainly can give the house no assurance about statements which may be made about war aims outside this country or indeed inside this country outside the ranks of the government."

EMANCIPATOR IS EULOGIZED BY LEGISLATORS

Harrisburg, Feb. 12.—(P)—Addresses by Governor James and United States Senator James J. Davis and eulogies in both branches of the legislature marked the observance today in Pennsylvania of the 132nd anniversary of the birth of President Lincoln.
The governor went to Meadville for an address tonight at a Lincoln day rally there. Senator Davis spoke last night at Gettysburg, scene of the decisive battle of the war between the states at the annual Lincoln day banquet of the Adams county Republican committee.
Senator Davis turned present day problems "just as profound and perplexing as any Lincoln was called upon to meet 89 years ago."
"To solve these problems," he said, "we shall require within us more of Lincoln's spirit of sober judgment and a heart that truly beats for humanity."
Referring to the British aid bill pending before the Senate, Davis said that if "through amendments" it could be made against the

DEMS ENDORSE PROGRAM FOR 1941 SESSION

Setup Discussed in Caucus Envisages Revision of Laws Governing Aid to Schools, Flood Control, Changes in Relief and Labor Acts

BILLS BEING DRAFTED

By the Associated Press
Harrisburg, Feb. 12.—The Democratic majority in the House sent back to committee today the James administration's tax program in entirety, an action so sudden and unexpected that the Republicans demanded an immediate explanation.
By the Associated Press
Harrisburg, Feb. 12.—The Democratic leadership in the legislature today adopted a seven-point program for the 1941 session and took steps immediately to draft bills carrying it out.
The program was discussed in caucus last night for the second time in two weeks. It envisages revision of laws governing aid to schools, flood control, enlarged state sanatoria, soil conservation, bigger prisons, changes in relief, and "restoration" of the anti-labor injunction and labor relations acts to their 1937 status.
David L. Lawrence, Democratic national committee, said work would start at once on bills covering these subjects.
The Democratic members of the legislature commended the attention in this—the fifth actual week of the session.
State Chairman Meredith Meyers took the occasion to observe:

Hitler Reported in Dispatch From Belgrade to Have Moved 25 Divisions Into the Country in Recent Weeks to Reinforce His Command as Sofia Expresses Fears "England is About to Violate Her Neutrality"

BUCHAREST IS UNDER PERMANENT BLACKOUT

By the Associated Press
Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Feb. 12.—(P)—Adolf Hitler has moved 25 new divisions of some 400,000 men into Rumania in recent weeks to reinforce his Balkan command in that nation, military observers reported today, as war-like preparations moved apace throughout southeastern Europe.
These informants said an average of 40 trains a day have been passing through Hungary, carrying great quantities of munitions, tanks, guns and other military equipment as well as men.
Neutral military observers estimate Germany now has between 500,000 and 600,000 men in Rumania, nearly 200,000 having entered the country from the time the first contingents arrived in September and the end of December, when the present mass movement began.
Balkan tension heightened with attention focused on the Rumanian-Bulgarian frontier, where the Germans are reported to have massed troops on the northern bank of the Danube.
Dispatches from Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, published today in pro-Axis newspapers in other Balkan centers said Bulgaria "fears England is about to violate her neutrality, thus dragging Rumania into the war." By sending RAF planes over the country to bomb Rumanian oil fields.
Other Sofia dispatches said Bulgarian Foreign Minister Ivan Popov conferred today with the Italian minister on the swiftly moving developments.
British officers from the Middle East Command returned today to Ankara, capital of Turkey, from an inspection of Turkish fortifications facing Bulgaria, reports from Istanbul said. The British mission has been in Turkey nearly a month.
The Turkish official press provided for a united Balkan front against a German move across Bulgaria to help Italy's embattled forces against Greece.
This was interpreted in diplomatic quarters here as meaning

FACTS INDICATE FORMER SECRET AGENT SUICIDE

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—The last friend of General Walter G. Krivitsky to see him alive was convinced today that the former Russian secret agent committed suicide, but other associates held to the belief that he had been assassinated.
Washington police who examined Krivitsky's body after it was found in a hotel room Monday were strongly inclined to agree with the suicide theory advanced by the Russian's friend, Eitel Wolf Dobert.
Dobert, a former German army officer now living in a log cabin near Charlottesville, Va., said Krivitsky spent from Thursday until Sunday with him and while there penned the three farewell notes found beside his body. Dobert said he helped Krivitsky buy a 35 caliber pistol in Charlottesville. An official blood-stained vest was discovered by a chambermaid. Seven House Amendments to Administration Lend-Lease Measure Approved in Principle

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—The senate foreign relations committee approved in principle today seven house amendments to the administration's British aid bill, including a $1,300,000,000 limitation on the amount of existing war material which could be transferred to other nations.
The amendments had been put forward in the house by proponents of British aid legislation and were reported to be acceptable to the administration leadership in congress.
While approving them in principle that is, subject to some technical changes in language—the foreign relations committee turned back opposition efforts to write into the legislation restrictions considered undesirable by the administration.
The six house changes acted on by the committee were:
To provide that nothing in the bill should permit any American vessel to enter a combat area.
To require the president to report to congress every 90 days on his operations under the bill.
To provide that all contracts executed in carrying out provisions of the legislation should be filled before July 1, 1941.
To limit operation of the British aid bill to the period ending June 30, 1942.
To provide that nothing in the act could be construed to authorize naval escort of convoys.
To require "consultation" between the president and army and navy chiefs before transfer of existing military equipment could be ordered by the president.

CAUSE OF FIRE WHICH CLAIMS LIVES OF TWO HEMLOCK TOTS UNKNOWN

Plans Are Being Made For Funeral of Victims of Tragedy While Subscriptions Are Being Received to Aid Parents

MOTHER IS INJURED

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moore, aged two and four years, were burned to death and the mother, aged 24, was cut about the hands breaking glass in windows trying vainly to reach them, when fire destroyed their home at Myers Hollow, about seven miles above Warren, along the Allegheny river yesterday morning about 10 o'clock.
Because of the isolated location of the home and the fact that no telephone was available, news of the tragedy which claimed the lives of Carol Anne and James LeRoy Moore, did not reach here until after two o'clock yesterday afternoon.
First news of the fire reached here after Mrs. A. B. Birchard, a resident of the Kinzua road, across the river, telephoned the owner of the property, Rick D. Myers, at North Warren, that the dwelling had burned.
Two donations of $5.00 each for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moore, of Myers Hollow, near Hemlock, who lost all their belongings in the fire which claimed the lives of their two small children yesterday, were announced this morning. They are from Mike Gotto, local fruit dealer, and the Times-Mirror. Mr. and Mrs. Moore saved only the clothing which they were wearing.
Mrs. Moore and a neighbor, Mrs. Ebert Carlson, across the road from the Moore home, were alone and almost two miles from a telephone when the fire occurred and had no way to get word to neighbors.
Mr. Myers went to the scene of the tragedy and it was not until his arrival that he learned of the deaths. He then returned to Warren and notified the father, who is employed on a WPA project at the State Hospital, North Warren.
The condition of the roads and lack of direct communication hampered for the time which elapsed

APPROVAL FORECAST FOR BILL

With Question of More Warships for Britain Suddenly a Very Live Topic Because of Statements Made by Willkie, Foreign Relations Committee Closes its Records On Two Weeks of Hearings

MODIFICATIONS TO BE GIVEN SOME ATTENTION

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—Secretary Knox said bluntly today that the navy "can spare no more destroyers" when asked to comment on Wendell L. Willkie's proposal that five to 10 destroyers a month be supplied Great Britain.
"We haven't any more destroyers to spare than we need for a balanced fleet," the navy secretary told a press conference.
"I am not going to comment directly on Mr. Willkie's proposal, but my position as the secretary of the navy is against depleting our navy further."
In other administration quarters, nevertheless, the Willkie proposal was reported to be receiving serious consideration and some informed persons even went so far as to predict that very tangible results might be forthcoming if the British aid bill was enacted.
In explaining his point about a balanced fleet, Knox said that the navy had no future prospect of being able to release destroyers because "as more destroyers are built we are building other ships, too."
To transfer destroyers under such circumstances, he asserted, would leave the fleet with an inadequate number.
Aside from the matter of destroyers, Knox said in response to a question, there have been no requests from Great Britain for submarines or any other part of the fleet.
The naval secretary reported that construction of warships and deliveries of war planes was ahead of schedule and generally "encouraging."
Willkie, who listed destroyers as Britain's No. 1 immediate war need when he testified before the Senate foreign relations committee yesterday, called for the United States.

"Grass Roots" Group Will Organize Later

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12.—(P)—A group of 100 western Pennsylvania Republicans voted at their second "grass roots" conference yesterday to postpone formation of a permanent organization.
At the suggestion of Frank J. Harris, temporary chairman, the delegates voted to defer to their next meeting the choosing of an executive committee and permanent chairman. Date of the meeting was not announced.
Harris said he had been in Florida on vacation and had not had time to rid in the "grass roots" organization.
At its first meeting last month the group adopted resolutions urging that the party be "revitalized and liberalized."
Last night the conference joined Allegheny county Republicans in a Lincoln rally.

Dies Committee Investigation to Proceed Immediately Despite Illness of Chairman

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—Members of the House committee investigating un-American activities said today their work would proceed immediately despite the illness of their chairman, Rep. Dies (D-Tex.).
The Texan collapsed in his office yesterday a short time after he firmly defended the committee's work on the House floor and participated in a roll call vote of 253 to 174 for a resolution recreating the committee until April 1, 1942.
Dr. Matthew W. Perry, his physician, ordered Dies to a private hospital for at least a week's rest, attributed the Texan's collapse to nervous exhaustion and said "he is simply worn out."
Rep. Starnes (D-Ma) who has acted as committee chairman when Dies has been ill or out of the capital, announced that Dies' absence would mean "only a delay in getting started on a long-range program."
At the same time, it became known that administration leaders had wanted to push the committee resolution through the House without debate yesterday, in order to avoid what one of them said "might be unpleasant."
But other members prevailed upon them to permit discussion, and the debate gave Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) his opportunity to call upon Dies to answer statements that had been made against the committee.

SALVATION ARMY HAS EMERGENCY GROUP IN AREA

Within the past forty-eight hours, the Salvation Army has created a district emergency organization to increase efficiency in national defense measures. This organization is to be closely allied to police and fire departments as well as churches, welfare organizations, civic, county, state and national authorities. Each step will be directed by counsel of Salvation Army citizens' advisory boards.

Each Salvation Army officer has been instructed by staff leadership to equip their auto with standard first aid kit, flashlight, list of available hospitals, doctors and other information which might be used.

A raincoat, rubbers and scarf uniform to be available quickly. A proper amount of fuel and lubrication must be kept in car, especially at night.

The western Pennsylvania Division has been divided into eight districts, Warren being the eighth. The district includes officers of Bradford, Kane and Warren with an area comprising McKean and Warren counties. Each district has a leader, an assistant and several members. Major B. E. Finn of Warren has been appointed leader of the local district, with Major John Strain as assistant.

Preliminary work has already been done and the group will meet at frequent intervals to confer on ordinary community service and to prepare for any possible emergencies. Assistance to trainees and enlisted military units and individuals will receive some consideration, especially enroute to and from their homes.

RARE FILM ATTRACTION AT COLUMBIA THEATRE TODAY, THURS., FRI.

"You'll Find Out"
Kay Kyser was such a sensational success in "That's Right, You're Wrong," his starring film of last year, that the ebullient band leader and his College of Musical Knowledge were returned to the RKO Radio studio for a second film, "You'll Find Out."

Differing widely from the plot pattern of the first, Kay is still the natural, lovable "Ol' Professor" of his air program, but now in "You'll Find Out" he is involved in mystery as well as music.

Those chief bogey-men of the screen, Peter Lorre, Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi, are merchants of the menace that hangs over the head of pretty Helen Parrish, sweetheart of Dennis O'Keefe and niece of Alma Kruger.

Such popular specialists in Kyser's musical troupe as Gunny Simms, Harry Babbitt, Ish Kabibble and Sully Mason.

Pat O'Brien is starred as the great Notre Dame coach in "Knute Rockne All American" with Gale Page, Ronald Reagan, Donald Crisp and many other noted players in the supporting cast. The authentic motion picture is based on the private papers and reports of Mrs. Rockne and Knute's intimate friends and associates. Robert Buckner wrote the original screen play.

Fred Astaire and Paulette Goddard in "SECOND CHORUS"

At the Library Theatre Friday and Saturday
Blithe comedy, delightful dances and swing tunes played by Artie Shaw and his band are all present in generous portions in the new Paramount laugh and melody hit, "Second Chorus," which comes Friday and Saturday to the Library Theatre.

Paulette Goddard is seen in the picture in her first dancing role, starring opposite Fred Astaire. Featured in important comedy parts are Burgess Meredith and Charles Butterworth.

Astaire and Meredith in the picture are a couple of trumpet players who try to win places in Artie Shaw's band, with the help of its manageress, Miss Goddard, and a tone-deaf millionaire music lover, Charles Butterworth.

The comedy was produced by Boris Morros and directed by Henry C. Potter.

Plans for the rebuilding of Route 62, from the Warren borough line to a point about 1,000 feet north of the Conewango-Pine Grove township division reveal that not only will a better surface be provided motorists but virtually all of the curves and every railroad crossing will be eliminated.

ALONG CAME CINDERELLA

By VIVIEN GREY

YESTERDAY: Lovely Daye and Roger Cosgrave have met by accident, and by chance also. They are to be married to Emily Perry in a month. Yet in spite of Roger's background of wealth and Emily's hard life in the tenement district of New York, their attraction for each other is growing. Now Roger has left Emily at her parents' home after a night of driving madly in New York. And he knows he is mad.

Chapter Seven Stolen Meeting

ONCE he saw her, Roger tried to tell himself, it would all be over. He'd know the thing for what it was then. An impulsive, feverish whim. And he would be rid of it. And could go back to Emily with a heart free of all these shadowy uncertainties that had suddenly possessed it.

His foot pressed the accelerator. Ossining! Tarrytown! Hastings! Yonkers! They seemed to fly by. And then he was on the Drive speeding down town.

It was an unhappy looking walkup, dingy, forbidding, that bore the street number Lovely had given him.

Roger climbed the stairs, scarcely aware of the odors that weighted the atmosphere of each floor and gave clue to the nationality of its occupants.

Gert opened the door and stared at him, unable to mask the surprise on her face. Roger recognized her as the sister of Emily, who as she had told it to him that morning.

No, Lovely hadn't come back from the movie yet. Maybe she'd stopped for beer and a sandwich. Sometimes they did. Would he come in? The last hesitantly, because Gert knew Joe would be with Lovely and that might not be so good.

Two men after the same girl. And two such different men. Instinctively Gert disapproved of Roger for Lovely. Not as an individual but as a class. Men from his walk of life rarely meant good for a girl like Lovely. Yet there was something about Roger—but he was speaking.

"Give me my car. I'll just wait down there."

He hadn't long to wait. Lovely came swinging along with Joe. They were walking close. A knife seemed to turn in Roger's heart as he saw Joe's arm around the girl.

And then suddenly he knew. Lovely was aware of him, had recognized his car there at the curb. He was about to speak to her but caught something in the atmosphere. She didn't want him to speak. She was hurrying along. He heard her say:

"No, tonight. Don't come up. Joe. It's been a swell evening but I'm tired now. Too much dancing I guess. Rain check for tomorrow night!"

Joe tried to linger, tried to persuade. But Lovely blew him a kiss and her heels clicked in the hall.

"See you tomorrow night then!" Joe said. But he was not to see her that night. Or the next night. Or for many after that.

Joe turned and moved slowly down the street. Roger sat waiting. Should he go up? He was sure Lovely had seen him.

Late Drive

SUDDENLY she was at the car, opening the door and slipping in beside him. The strange dark weight within him lifted. Night in that neglected street had become magic. He caught the faint fragrance of her—cheap perfume he knew—but the most satisfying scent that ever had assailed his nostrils.

She had on a dress instead of the slacks of the morning. A thin, tight, little dark silk that suggested almost nothing under it. The lovely curves of her went to his head and to his heart. It was a moment before his voice could rise through the mist of emotion that swept him.

"Lovely! I had to see you!"

"Jeepers creepers, boy! When I saw your car I thought I was seeing things. Had to do some quick thinking to get Joe started on his way. I'm—but Roger's voice interrupting was compelling.

"Lovely!"

Emotion was a torrent in it, a steady surging torrent. Deceiving. Sweeping before it like frail debris in a spring flood, awareness of every other thing. Leaving only the girl beside him, the sweet alluring curves of her, the lush temptation of her lips, the subtly suggested passion weaving like a thread of gold through her voice.

Her face was upturned to his in a moment. Her eyes. Her lips were soft against his. Warm. Active. Like sweet, tender, clinging hands caressing his very soul. His arms around her were tensely possessive.

Finally he turned from her wordless and started on the gas pedal. Lovely leaned back against the cushion and said nothing. It was no time for words. There was no need for them. They had spoken to each other in their caresses with such definiteness. Words could add nothing.

Roger drove madly. North. He cut a path through the night, straight north.

struction of four concrete bridges, crossing Follett, Jackson, Dougherty and Valentine runs, a by-pass in the State Hospital grounds and retaining walls for the portion just north of the borough near the No. 1 plant of the Conewango Refinery Company.

The highway follows the general line of the old road from Warren to a point south of Venturatown, but the eliminating of curves will require the removal of some frame homes, garages and other buildings. At Venturatown the highway veers left, at a spot now occupied by a roadside market, cuts behind the Larimer store and continues behind the Phillips and Wetmore house into North Warren. It passes just in front of the Warren Coopersage plant, occupied by the Unico Oil Company, and crosses the Jackson Run road at the N. A. Kidder residence.

A seven-foot chain-link wire fence will be constructed on either side of the road through the State Hospital grounds and a by-pass will be built for the passage of patients, employees and equipment without the necessity of crossing the highway.

The hill will be cut away to a considerable extent at the old "highboard fence" where the new highway crosses the old road and veers east on a line which will cut directly between storage tanks on the property of the Conewango Refining Company at plant No. 2. It rejoins the old highway near the Glenn Delp property, south of the Farm Colony, and generally follows the original roadbed for the rest of the route. A new bridge is necessary at Valentine Run because of the wash-out there last year.

Considerable widening of the highway beyond the point of new construction is also planned.

Work on the new road will begin very soon after the contract is let.

The county commissioners said today that the plans are available for any persons interested and may be viewed at the commissioners' office in the court house.

WARREN ROTARY CLUB OBSERVES 36TH BIRTHDAY

Warren Rotary Club Monday at its regular meeting celebrated the 36th anniversary of its founding. The celebration took the form of a self education project, each committee of Rotary holding a meeting to acquaint itself with its particular responsibility and making plans for the future. The club is now providing Christmas gifts for the Children's Home, encouraging its members to participate in boys work agencies of the community and is developing cooperative relationships with boys of the high school. This is in the field of boys' welfare.

The community service committee has installed "welcome" signs at various entrances to the borough and through its Farmer-Rotary meetings is encouraging a better understanding between rural and urban groups, and is fostering the current Lecture Forum to develop better understanding of current problems.

The fellowship committee is endeavoring to promote better fellowships among members. The crippled children committee has the responsibility of encouraging work for crippled children. Its members of the County Crippled Children's Committee and it annually raises funds to carry on its work.

Nearly every member of the club represents Rotary in his own trade or professional group, thus the ideals of Rotary service are being brought into many of the trade and professional fields.

Each committee in its meeting drew up a list of projects that the club might undertake in keeping with the Rotary slogan "He profits most who serves best." The list of projects is to be turned over to the club directors for their consideration and further development. W. E. Yeager presided at the meeting.

WARREN PUPILS ABOVE NATIONAL MARK IN TESTS

John G. Rossman, superintendent of the borough schools, has completed a study of achievement tests used recently in grades three to eight, and reports that the showing made by Warren pupils on the basis of the tests is commendable.

"In light of the fact that most of our pupils have had no experience in this type of test, that most have had no special coaching and that most of them were thrust into it on a single day, I am well satisfied," the superintendent stated, "and I believe it is a fair assumption that had our pupils been accustomed to this type of test they would have ranged from three to four months better in almost every particular."

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, INVENTOR

The young woman is looking over Abe Lincoln's model for his invention.

By NEA SERVICE

Washington, Feb. 12.—Among the millions of Americans who have gone to the patent office with inventions they hoped would solve one or another of America's mechanical problems was Abraham Lincoln—and the patent office today has a tricky little model of his invention.

Lincoln had considerable experience on western river flatboats as a young man. Boats were forever getting stuck on sandbars. Lincoln thought of a stunt to fix things.

So on May 22, 1849, when he was a rather obscure member of Congress just turned 40—he got a patent on a "new and improved manner of combining adjustable buoyant air chambers with a steamboat or other vessel for the purpose of enabling their draught of water to be readily lessened to enable them to pass over bars, or

LINCOLN AND DEMOCRACY

The little creek still winds down the tiny valley near Hodgenville, Ky., the spring still flows on the wooded hillside; there are even trees standing there which people like to believe were standing on the morning of February 12, 1809 — one hundred and thirty-two years ago today.

There once was a morning gaunt Tom Lincoln wrapped a bearskin rug about his wife, Nancy Hanks, and set off on a two-mile walk to the nearest neighbor to tell them that she had borne a son, and that they had decided to call him Abraham.

Be still for a moment, cannon; let the tensed finger relax from the bomb release while America turns mind and heart to her greatest son, Abraham Lincoln, whom a world has been glad to call one of her greatest.

There is much talk of democracy today, and whole books are written to define it and discuss it and belabor it. What is democracy, anyway?

Why, it is really very simple. It is the kind of condition in which a Lincoln may be born and, being born, may become what Lincoln became. Lincoln not only understood democracy, practiced democracy, breathed democracy—he WAS democracy.

And with that curious felicity that comes so rarely to men, he was able also to define it in words so simple, so direct, so powerful, that they are worth all the books lesser men have written. In a letter to a friend one day Lincoln wrote this:

"As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. That expresses my idea of democracy. Whatever differs from this, to the extent of the difference, is no democracy."

There on a slide rule of complete accuracy Lincoln left a means of measuring the claims and counter-claims of all the men who babble about whether this country or that, this system or the other, is truly democratic. One need only measure the claims against this plain standard. Perhaps in no earthly land are men utterly free; perhaps in no lands some men must have some degree of mastery. But in "the extent of the difference" lies the key.

Lincoln not only lived a life that was of, by, and for democracy. He left us this beautifully simple rule-of-thumb by which we can always unerringly measure by how much we, or others, fall short of the democratic goal.

There is hardly a boy or girl in the land today who has not had a better chance than Abe Lincoln had. Why should any youngster say he has no opportunity in the modern world, when he can see what Abe Lincoln had to contend with and what he became.

THE HEMLOCK TRAGEDY

How a chain of circumstances that would be considered part of the routine of an average family can turn that home into the deepest sorrow and despair over a period of a few minutes was demonstrated by the fire near Hemlock Tuesday which claimed the lives of the interesting young children of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moore.

The first incident that led to the tragedy occurred when the water supplying the two-room dwelling froze up during the cold snap of Sunday and Monday nights. Yesterday morning after the children had been dressed and had their breakfast one of them asked for a drink. That was the second happening in the strange chain of events for the mother was compelled to go to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Ebert Carlson, for a pail of water.

While she was on this errand the fire started and when she reached the dwelling the flames had gained such headway that she was helpless to save her offspring.

It was a tragic turn of fate that the fire should have occurred in the home during the few moments that the young mother was absent on a mission resulting from her eagerness to see that every wish of the children should be fulfilled, even to a drink of water.

Half Slave and Half Free

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One day not more than a week ago—on a Wednesday afternoon, a matinee afternoon—the secretary of an advertising man I know went to the theater.

It was a terrible afternoon. It had been snowing, and it turned to sleet, and then the rains came. She drew the side streets to her house, and she was about to take one when, to her horror, she discovered that they weren't cough-drops at all but were little fertilizer tablets prepared for the nutrition of potted plants.

But it was too late to turn back. She had been waiting weeks to see Ethel Barrymore in "The Corn Is Green," and so she went inside and found herself sitting directly behind a young woman with one of the worst coughs she had ever heard.

This cough tore up the aisles and rattled against the walls of the theater. It sounded as if men were ripping planks from an attic floor, and even the actors on the stage noticed it.

FINALLY, in the third act the young woman with the wet knees leaned over and touched the young woman with the cough on the shoulder. "Try one of these," she whispered, handing over a package of coughdrops.

"Thank you," the cougher murmured gratefully. She took one and placed it in her mouth and returned the package.

Apparently these tablets had the answer, for the young woman was able to sit through the rest of the play in comparative comfort.

fort. As the curtain fell and the lights came up she nodded gratefully once more, and then the theater emptied, and the young woman with the wet knees boarded a subway for home.

It must have been about ten minutes later that she experienced a minor flurry of coughing herself. She drew the coughdrops from her purse and was about to take one when, to her horror, she discovered that they weren't cough-drops at all but were little fertilizer tablets prepared for the nutrition of potted plants.

SHE was in a panic because she hadn't the least idea whether they were poisonous or not. And she didn't know who the other girl was. No, she hadn't the remotest idea who she was or where to find her, and so she hurried to get out of the theater when it stopped and into a taxi and hurried to her doctor's.

The doctor listened carefully to what she had to say. He began to examine one of the little tablets in minutest detail. He powdered it and placed it under a microscope. He said, slowly, "Don't worry, it won't kill her up."

"But shouldn't I look her up? Shouldn't I try to find her and explain, and tell her what happened?"

"No," said the M.D., "under no circumstances. She might say some unpleasant things. Go on home, and if goodness sakes take these things with you, and feed them to the geraniums."

STORIES IN STAMPS

War Hints Captives In Hittes Zoo

RATIONING and raids bring war close to animals locked in cages in London, Paris and Berlin zoos, disturb the comfortable, secure existence these creatures have enjoyed hitherto. The polar bear pictured on Greenland's stamp above, is in less danger in his Arctic home than his brothers in captivity.

Rationing has hit the zoos harder than bombs. With humans going hungry, animals have been put on plain diets consisting largely of soups and over-age fish or meats. Vegetables unfit for human consumption are allotted to zoos. Fruits and sugars are absent from most zoo menus.

Air raids constitute the principal threat to the safety of the animals. Screaming bombs and sirens send monkeys into nervous fits, but lions and tigers take air attacks quietly. Elephants may get a little excited.

Every precaution has been taken to prevent escape of the animals in case of a direct bomb hit. Manikins are kept in double cages. All of London's poisonous snakes and spiders have been destroyed. If war-rationing becomes worse the animals may eventually land on the dinner table. During the World War, Germans ate elephant and liked it.

Piso's PLUS-ACTION* Explodes Theory That Cough Medicine Only Soothes Your Throat!

The very first spoonful of Piso's brings soothing comfort to your irritated throat membranes. But you also get an important plus-action in this modern formula Piso's.

*Piso's actually stimulates your system to produce more protective secretions in your throat and upper bronchial passages. These normal fluids thin and liquefy thick, clogging phlegm... it's more easily flushed away... your cough is "loosened!"

Depend on Piso's (Pie-so)... not for its local "throat soothing" action alone... but for its more important inside-working systemic effect. Piso's is good for adults and children. At all druggists in 55c-60c bottles.

Bundles for Britain Chapter Sends Large Shipment of Finished Goods

The local Bundles for Britain chairman reports that knitters responded nobly in bringing in finished garments for the latest shipment of 177 articles on Monday of this week.

It is announced, also, that on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, samples of the various garments may be seen in the window of the Kinnear store on Liberty street.

This display will include new Bundles for Britain articles suitable for gifts and prizes, the profit from which goes to the local branch for purposes of materials for hospital garments and knitted things.

Knitters are reminded that another shipment of wool is expected soon and all are urged to double their efforts during the next six weeks.

An urgent plea for afghans for civilians has been received by local officials, since they are lighter in weight than blankets, can be used as wraps and do not soil so quickly. A number of these have been knitted by the Girl Scouts children and several are being made by individuals.

Through arrangements made by Mrs. Allen Carter, the project of making several afghans at Trinity Memorial Episcopal church is being launched on Thursday, when everyone interested is invited to come and knit squares. All attending are asked to provide themselves with No. 6 needles and a ball of wool.

Tea will be provided by Mrs. Clarence Beckley, Mrs. Harold Blair, Mrs. Edward Borden, Mrs. Allen Carter, Mrs. H. W. Schmidt, Mrs. R. S. Gibb, Mrs. Gail Hamilton, Mrs. W. H. Ley, Mrs. J. W. A. Luce, Miss Ethel McCray, Miss Anna Rockwell, Mrs. Albert Rockwell and Mrs. Paul Stewart. A small charge will be made, the proceeds to be used for purchasing afghan wool for the next meeting.

Among the latest overseas needs cabled from Britain, the local branch lists the following: 200,000 garments for men, 200,000 for women, 10,000 for children under one year, 50,000 for children under twelve years and 20,000 for children from 13 to 16 years. Funds are urgently needed to buy in this country 125,000 pairs of rubber boots for children, 20 tons of knitting wool, 20,000 blankets, 20,000 mending kits, shoes, paper cups, thermos bottles, paper handkerchiefs towels and razor blades.

In a recent broadcast over CBS, Mrs. Edward F. Murray, American representative of Bundles for Britain in London, expressed how eagerly the people in that country look forward to the shipments, how gratefully they are received and how wisely they are distributed.

Mrs. Munksgard Is Winner of Award In Auxiliary Campaign

As the result of her work in bringing in the largest membership total in this year's campaign, Mrs. Elmer Munksgard was honored at last night's meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, receiving a handsome vanity case decorated with the American Legion insignia.

Mrs. Larry Krespan, president, was in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. C. D. Cannon, membership chairman, gave a report on work of the clean-up squad. It was decided to hold the membership open until February 21, when the department president and commander visit the local units, in an effort to reach this year's quota.

Since February is "Americanism" month and Mrs. Freeman Peterson is chairman of that work, she will be in charge of the next program meeting on February 21. Following a tureen supper, there will be a business session and address by Rev. James A. Davidson, pastor of the First Baptist church. To conclude the evening, the group will return to the downstairs rooms for cards and a social time.

Mrs. Effie Spindel headed the refreshment committee for the social time which followed the meeting last evening.

Today, members of the auxiliary committee are meeting with the Legion Home house committee to select some new furnishings for the home.

FREIGHTER SAFE
Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—(P)—The 4,100 ton Yugoslavian freighter "Dubu," 13 days overdue from India and earlier feared lost, radioed that she expects to arrive at Wilmington, Del., Thursday, the Maritime Exchange reported today.

The vessel, carrying a cargo of sand to be used by the E. I. Dupont de Nemours company in making paint, probably was delayed by zigzagging through the Indian and Pacific oceans to dodge Nazi raiders, exchange officials said. The ship carries a crew of 40.

U. S. gasoline production has increased more than twofold since the year 1915.

"As of Jan. 15, 1941, the U. S. Army Air Corps had a personnel complement of 96,180."

When Colds Choke You All Up, Cause Coughing

Are coughing spasms keeping you awake at night and making you feel miserable all day? Is your head so filled up that it feels ready to burst? If you have that kind of a cold—if anyone in your family has one—THEN HERE IS WELCOME NEWS! Right at home you can easily prepare a simple, direct treatment that helps relieve such discomforts. All you need do is boil some water. Pour it into a bowl while it's steaming. Add a good spoonful of Vicks VapoRub. Then breathe in the steaming medicinal vapors. With every breath VapoRub's relieving medication is carried deep into the breathing passages of the nose, throat and chest. It soothes irritation, eases local congestion in the upper bronchial tubes, helps clear head and throat, quiets coughing.

When you enjoy the results of this medicated vapor treatment you will understand why Vicks VapoRub is used this way in so many homes. Added relief... Rub Vicks VapoRub on chest, chest and back at bedtime—to get the benefit of its soothing medicated vapors and its comforting poultice action while you sleep.

Cause of Fire Which Claims Lives of Two Tots at Hemlock Are Unknown

The mother told Coroner Ed Lowrey and District Fire Warden Douglas G. Kropf, who investigated, that she had gone to the home of Mrs. Carlson for a pair of water about 10 o'clock. She said she was absent but a few minutes.

When she reached the house, the interior was filled with smoke and flames and there was no trace of the tots. There was but one door to the two-room dwelling and she and her neighbor, Mrs. Carlson, were compelled to watch the structure burn to the ground after trying vainly to reach them by breaking windows.

Mrs. Moore was given first aid treatment by Chief Kropf and later she was treated by a physician who was called.

Charred remains of the children were found later in the afternoon. One of them apparently had sought refuge in a bed in one of the two rooms of the house, while the other, it appeared, had been trapped in the kitchen near a coal stove.

Officials who investigated the tragedy said today that the cause of the fire would never be determined.

Both children were born in Warren, Carol Anne, July 22, 1938, and James LeRoy, March 25, 1937. Besides the grief-stricken parents, they are survived by their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore, Prospect street, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Martin, Clarendon Heights.

Removal was made to the Lutz Funeral Home.

the heavily-traveled west shore highway. As in the earlier accident, the deaths were listed as accidental.

The girl was attractive Dorothy Minnich, a senior at William Penn high school; the boy, Albert C. Hallman, 19, of Linglestown.

The two became acquainted a year ago when both were attending William Penn high school.

They were found lifeless in Hallman's car at 9 a. m. yesterday, nine hours after a young woman reported seeing them there during the night.

Eleven days before, Miss Pauline Garrison, 19, of Middletown, and Carl Gordon, 19, Elizabethtown, died in similar circumstances in a car on the Mennonite church grounds at Clifton, about 25 miles from here.

ed States to supply 5 or 10 a month a number that seemed out of the question to many legislators.

Administration officials, however, were said to have reacted quite differently. After a preliminary study, it was reported, they felt it might be possible to meet Willkie's request in part, or perhaps completely.

With the question of more destroyers for Britain suddenly a very live topic, the foreign relations committee closed its record on two weeks of hearings to start final deliberations on the lend-lease legislation.

The bill's backers forecast decisive committee approval by a 2-to-1 margin, and said they expected the approved version of the measure to incorporate most, if not at all of the changes made when the House passed it last week. They also said that the modifications suggested by Willkie yesterday would be given careful attention.

As the final witness for the bill, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee gave an emphatic and aggressive endorsement, as "the only way to render aid quickly enough" to embattled Britain. He called for its passage "with some modifications mentioned by an 'almost unanimous vote.'"

The committee chamber, crammed with spectators who had wedged, shoved and elbowed their way in, heard Willkie outline the reasons why he was advocating the measure.

He enumerated Britain's needs. He thought helping her was the best chance of keeping war from the United States. He foresaw the United States embroiled with the Axis powers in "a month or 60 days" if Britain fails.

Cause of Philly Blast Is Sought

All agree that the explosions at dawn yesterday resulted from an accumulation of illuminating gas in cellars.

Firemen worked in the glare of floodlights throughout the night in search of possible other victims of the blast. None was found although officials have not closed the search.

Firemen reported many of the dwellings were so badly damaged they would have to be razed.

The Red Cross set up emergency headquarters in a service station to aid evacuated families and Mayor Lamberton said the city would "take care" of the homeless.

Survey of "BOOTLEG" MINING IS STARTED

BY HAROLD WARD

Harrisburg, Feb. 12.—(P)—A survey of "bootleg" mining operations in the southern anthracite fields of eastern Pennsylvania, to form the starting point for eventual elimination of such workings, was begun today by 150 mining engineers.

The survey was authorized by agreement of the United Mine Workers Union and operators who have been cooperating in producing for the weekly market during the past year. The plan has the approval of Governor James and the State Department of Mines.

The engineers were "loaned" by the 20 regular coal companies holding land in the southern area in Northumberland and Schuylkill counties.

400,000 Nazis In Rumania

The Turkish government may well be moving diplomatically to weld a Balkan front, since the press of Turkey is under government control.

Rumania's anti-aircraft defenses and air raid protection measures were speeded up by German and Rumanian military authorities, reports from Bucharest said Bucharest now is under permanent blackout and military patrols are making sure that all buildings are equipped with air raid shelters.

This order followed the British break of diplomatic relations with Rumania Monday.

CLEARFIELD COUNTY HAS FIRE FATALITY

Clearfield, Feb. 12.—(P)—Ignoring a warning to flee Mrs. Mary Leskoven, 76, perished yesterday in a fire that destroyed her home in Cooper township, Clearfield county.

A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Irene Leskoven, rescued her two children and urged the elder woman to leave when the fire broke out, but instead she went to an upper floor.

The younger Mrs. Leskoven said that after she had gotten the children to safety she was barred by flames from returning to the home to save her mother-in-law. Acting Coroner E. S. Ehardt attributed the blaze to an overheated stove.
